[2]Segall Bryant & Hamill (the "Adviser") has contractually agreed to waive certain investment advisory and/or administration fees and/or to reimburse other expenses from May 1, 2018 until at least April 30, 2020. The first waiver/reimbursement applies so that the ratio of expenses to average net assets, as reported in the Fund's Financial Highlights, will be no more than a fixed percentage for the Fund's Retail Class for such period. Please see the Fund's Prospectus for more information. From May 1, 2018 until at least April 30, 2020, for the Fund's Institutional Class, the Adviser has contractually agreed to waive the investment advisory and/or administration fees and/or to reimburse other expenses in the same proportion as the Retail Class waivers/reimbursements described above and also to waive or reimburse Institutional Class-specific Other Expenses, but only to the extent that after applying the waiver/reimbursements described in this sentence, the excess of the net Retail Class expense ratio over the net Institutional Class expense ratio does not exceed 25 basis points. If after applying the waivers/reimbursements discussed above, the excess of the net Retail Class expense ratio over the net Institutional Class expense ratio is less than 15 basis points, then the Adviser agrees to waive/reimburse such that the excess equals 15 basis points. This agreement may not be terminated or modified by the Adviser prior to April 30, 2020 without the approval of the Board of Trustees.

Manager Commentary for the quarter ended 9/30/18

Market Overview

In the third quarter of 2018, investors focused on positive fundamentals, including strong earnings and accelerating gross domestic product (GDP) growth. This resulted in further U.S. equity market appreciation and, in August, the current bull market became the longest on record. Accelerating economic growth has been driven both by increased consumer spending and business investment following tax reform. The markets have largely ignored trade tensions, rising labor and material costs, and the gradual interest rate increases being implemented by the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed), which could indicate that investors believe economic growth can continue at this higher rate for longer.

Fund Performance*

The Segall Bryant & Hamill Mid Cap Value Dividend Fund returned 1.88% for the third quarter, trailing the 3.30% return of its benchmark, the Russell Midcap® Value Index. U.S. equity markets were led by larger market capitalization, non-dividend paying companies with more volatile stock prices, which created a headwind for our strategy. The Fund generally has a lower weighted average market capitalization than its benchmark and focuses on undervalued, fundamentally sound, dividend-paying companies. These characteristics generally lead us to companies with lower volatility profiles.

Contributors to Return

The sectors that contributed most to the Fund's return relative to its benchmark in the quarter were Financials, Real Estate and Materials. Financials sector holding Radian Group Inc. (RDN), a leading mortgage insurer and mortgage market data provider, was the Fund's top performer in the quarter. RDN's shares moved higher after the company reported strong quarterly earnings, near-record new business written and attractive financial returns, all while maintaining yields and continued strong credit. RDN grew the number of its active and current insurance policies 10% year over year through new business wins, which then led the company to raise its annual new business expectations by 10%. We believe its services business is moving toward profitability and that its capital levels indicate strong positioning ahead of new capital rules going into place in 2019. RDN's business is now 95% home-purchase related and we believe it is priced for strong returns. We remain optimistic that its stock will reach the intrinsic value we are forecasting. Americold Realty Trust (COLD), a cold storage industrial REIT, was the Fund's top performer within the Real Estate sector following the company's better-than-expected quarterly earnings report. Strong demand for cold storage continued and same-store sales growth remained attractive. In addition, the company announced a new build-to-suit project for the largest food retailer in Australia, which we believe has the potential to drive higher growth in the future. Viacom Inc. (VIAB), a global media and entertainment company, was the top performer in the Communication Services sector after the company reported better-than-expected quarterly earnings. Its results were driven by cost-cutting initiatives, which supported profit margins, and a turnaround in VIAB's film entertainment business, Paramount Pictures. We believe the company's new management team will continue to make progress toward improving content and ratings, while controlling costs.

Detractors from Return

The Fund's weakest sectors relative to its benchmark were Industrials, Health Care and Consumer Staples. While the Industrials and Health Care sectors were among the Fund's weakest relative performers in the quarter, they were the benchmark's strongest, driven primarily by more volatile, non-dividend paying companies that our strategy generally avoids. Within the Consumer Staples sector, Flowers Foods Inc. (FLO), a packaged bakery foods producer, was the portfolio's largest detractor. The company reported lower-than-expected earnings despite reporting in-line revenue growth. FLO has experienced cost headwinds in the form of higher transportation and labor costs, which have not yet been offset by its multi-year cost-saving program, Project Centennial. FLO continued to outpace peers in volume growth and pricing; however, near-term cost pressures have pushed our margin improvement forecast out by a couple of quarters. We are still confident that the cost-saving program and strong growth of its Dave's Killer Bread brand should allow FLO to outperform food industry peers and achieve our projected intrinsic value. Although the Real Estate sector as a whole was a strong relative performer in the quarter Realogy Holdings Corp. (RLGY) was among the Fund's most significant detractors. RLGY is an owner and franchisor of residential real estate brokerages, corporate relocation and title insurance. The company continued to face margin pressures, which have resulted from competitive broker splits and limited volume growth in homes sales, primarily due to limited supply of homes for sale. We had anticipated that these pressures would subside, but concluded at the end of the summer that the catalysts we had expected remained elusive. As a result, we exited the position.

Outlook and Positioning

In a market environment that has been rewarding companies that are not profitable, our strategy faced headwinds. We continue to focus on fundamentally sound businesses that generate consistent cash flows and pay dividends, a strategy that has historically delivered strong results over market cycles and that we believe will do so in the future. With markets focused on momentum and short-term execution, we are discovering more companies with what we believe are strong fundamentals that are trading at attractive valuations. We believe the intrinsic value of these businesses will be recognized and rewarded over time.

*As of September 28, 2018, a number of changes were implemented to the Global Industry Classification Standard (GICS®), which is used by a number of index providers to classify stocks, structure market indexes and help provide attribution on portfolio performance and positioning. The most significant change was the introduction of a new sector called Communication Services. This new sector includes all stocks that were formerly in the Telecommunications sector, as well as numerous stocks previously in the Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary sectors. The Telecommunications sector will not exist going forward. Please be aware that the timing of the sector re-classification late in the third quarter may impact sector allocation attribution for the full quarter.

The Morningstar Rating™ for funds, or "star rating", is calculated for managed products (including mutual funds, variable annuity and variable life subaccounts, exchange-traded funds, closed end funds, and separate accounts) with at least a three-year history. Exchange-traded funds and open ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. It is calculated based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a managed product's monthly excess performance, placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three-, five-, and 10 year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 120 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10-year period, the most recent three-year period actually has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods.
